INTRODUCTION

CHINESE PROVERB

"To forget ones ancestors is to be a brook without a source; a tree without a root."

In taking upon myself the task of compiling a biographical, historical and genealogical sketch of the COLLINS family, I fully realized the difficulties to be encountered. The greatest of these, no doubt, is the widely scattered family and family records, such as have been preserved. In the early migrations from the east, many times to the far west by pack horse, wagon or afoot, some belongings must be discarded, left with relatives, passed from one to another, and finally lost.

Fires have made havoc, destroying court records, old church records and family Bibles and records kept in homes. Three wars with fire, pillage and devastation, from the Atlantic to the Mississippi, have destroyed many early records that can never be replaced. The pioneer ancestor has passed on, and with him, the early family traditions.

The lack of interest, on the part of many, is another difficulty, lack of interest in asking the older generations for family traditions; indifferent to answering letters of inquiry and thus contribute to the general family history, any information however small.

The very least of all obstacles, is the good natured gibe, that one may find what he would wish he had not found—the proverbial black sheep.

The COLLINS family, as a family, so far as my acquaintance and research have lead, and from what I have learned from the family, in widely scattered sections, is of high standards of right and wrong, honesty and honor, firm in their convictions, loyal to kindred and friend. They are, in the great majority, tillers of the soil. There have been no great philanthropists, educators, financiers, nor men of national fame, of strong convictions in politics but not politicians, yet, each has filled his place, as one of the great mass, of which Lincoln said:—"God must have loved the common people; He made so many of them."

In the work of this compilation, I am deeply grateful and indebted for the hearty co-operation and data furnished by Mrs. Ethel Collins Crager, Frankfort, Ky., probably of the same Virginia COLLINS family, before the early migration into Kentucky; Mrs. Ellie Collins McDonald, Versailles, Ky.; Miss Nadine Hodges, Arkansas City, Kan.; Mrs. Mary Lee Mahin, Keene, Ky.; Mrs. T. D. Craven, Indianapolis, Ind.; my nephew, co-worker and adviser, E. R. McKay, West Newton, Mass., and to each and every one who replied to my letters of inquiry, and contributed data and traditions.

The author hopes this outline, though incomplete in many ways, will furnish a permanent record of family data and traditions, soon to be lost as the older generations pass on:—will answer, in some measure, the often asked question, "How are we related?":—will strengthen the bond of kinship, throughout this widespread family circle:—will give us a new appreciation of our ancestors, who through devious paths down through the years have passed on to us our heritage of tradition and name.

COLLINS

"This well known surname is taken from two or three probable sources. One is the SCOTCH word "Cuilein" meaning "darling", a term of endearment, usually applied to young animals. It is more probable, however, that the COLLINS surname was derived from the WELSH word "Coleen" signifying "hazel", "one of hazel eyes" or "one who lived near the hazel groves". In IRELAND, the word "Coleen" signifies a young maiden. This may also be a probable source.

In the New England colony, the name of COLLINS was represented by a great number of first settlers. One of the very first was John Collins, a shoemaker and tanner, son of John Collins of Suffolk, England. He was born in 1616 and came to America before 1638. In 1646 he was a member of the church in Braintree, Mass. Edward Collins born in England, 1603, located in Cambridge, Mass. in 1638, and later removed to Medford, Mass.

The name of COLLINS is now widespread in the United States and wherever it is known it is honored for the high achievements and admirable qualities of those who bear it." Copied from Charleston, W. Va. Newspaper.

At the same time that the name COLLINS is represented in the New England colonies, we also find the name in the Southern Colonies, and find records of Collins's in Middlesex Co., Va., as early as 1683, as well as in other eastern border counties. The earliest COLLINS record found in Virginia is a record of "English Immigrants to Va.; Wm. Collins May 15, 1635, aged 20 yrs.; and Wm. Collins, aged 34."

Extract from a letter from Mr. George Gordon Collins, Danville, Ill., who has done extensive research on Collins:—

"There were five well known families by the name of COLLINS among the early settlers of our country, each distinct and not related. One went to Kentucky from Virginia. One settled in New England and stayed there until the branching out occurred in recent times. Another New England family settled in Ohio. A Virginia COLLINS family, William Richerson Collins, settled in Athens County, in 1803. A Maryland COLLINS family settled in Ohio, in Fairfield and Athens Counties, in 1805.

Signed, Geo. Gordon Collins.

(Note:—The author has not, so far, had access to the records referred to, as in Newberry Library, Chicago.)

The first positive identification we have of our family line is in Orange Co., Virginia. As a result of a woman's curiosity and persistent questioning, I had from my grandfather, William G. Collins (93), the names of his grandfather and grandmother, JOHN COLLINS and JEMIMA COLLINS, and wish to say, but for the fact that I quizzed him and got the name JEMIMA, there would have been no possible means of knowing which of the various JOHNS was our ancestor, as John was a frequently used name.

Orange Co., Va. Records, as follows, copied by Mrs. L. K. Wine, Culpeper, Va., Deed Book 17 p. 93, 10-26-1778.

John Butler and Ann his wife of Orange Co., Va., for 28 lbs. of Va. Currency, sell JOHN COLLINS & Heirs, 45 acres in Battaile's line, corner to John Conner, with all Houses, Buildings &c.

Signed: John Conner, John Hiatt, John Proctor.

Deed Book 20 p 327, This Indenture made the 22nd day of Sept. in the year of our Lord, 1787, Between John Collins and Jemima his wife, of Orange Co. and John Conner of sd Co. Witnesseth, that the said John Collins and Jemima his wife, for & in consideration of the sum of 48 lbs. current money of Va., Whereof the sd. John Collins & Jemima his wife do hereby grant, bargain, & sell, unto the sd John Conner & Heirs, all that tract and parcele of Land containing 45 acres (or 450?) more or less & is bounded to Wit-On South side of Pleasant Run, in line with John Conner Sr & in Battaile's line &c. together with all buildings, Houses, gardens, orchards, meadows, Pastures, &c &c. Whatsover, To Have & to Hold, the sd Land, with all Appurtenances & every part there of to John Conner, his Heirs & Assigns forever. John Collins, shall for himself & his Heirs, shall Warrent forever & defend by these presents, the sd Land & premises with all Appurtenances, &c, In Witness Where of the sd John Collins & Jemima his wife, have here unto set their hands & Seals, the day & year above written.

John Collins is said to have been in the Revolutionary War; said to have been at the Battle of Bunker Hill and wounded; said also to have been at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, and so stated in a family biographical sketch in Perrin's history of Harrison, Scott, Bourbon and Nicholas Cos., Ky. page 708. So far positive proof of Revolutionary service has not been found, since John Collins, our ancestor, received no Land Grant for Revolutionary Service, and died prior to the issue of pensions for such service. Several men with the name—JOHN COLLINS—were in the Virginia line, hence the difficulty of a positive identification.

JOHN COLLINS and JEMIMA his wife, with their family, came to Kentucky about 1787, or 1788, (See Deed) passing over the Alleghanies, and continuing down the Ohio River in a flat boat; came through to Central Kentucky, passing through Lexington when it consisted of only a few log cabins, and settled on South Elkhorn; in Fayette Co. near where was afterward the town of South Elkhorn; leased 200 acres of land from Col. Bowman, who owned a great tract. Family traditions say he was offered a deed to the 200 acres, in exchange for his wagon and team, the same with which he had moved from Virginia to Kentucky, but he refused the offer, cleared and tended the land until it was in good condition, but his lease expired with his death and his family did not reap the benefits from his labors. He died in the 66th year of his age and is buried in the graveyard of the old Baptist Church at South Elkhorn. (Combination of data in Perrin's History, page 708 and family traditions.)

We have been twice to South Elkhorn and to the church, founded in 1783, so stated on the stone tablet over the door. We can find no evidence of an old graveyard, and it exists only in the memory of the oldest inhabitants—one aged man, Mr. James K. P. Sallee, saying he remembers, when a young man, seeing some old gravestones back of the church, but, whatever became of them, he does not know. (See statement by Thomas Mathews (393).)

Extract from a letter dated April 7, 1934:

"I am Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee, and my mother was Miss Elizabeth Collins and married Merritt Woods. My great grandfather came from Virginia and settled on South Elkhorn. His name was JOHN COLLINS and his sons were Acy Collins, Whitfield Collins and Lewis Collins, these are the names that I know. There were several daughters, I think nine or ten children. Lewis was my grandfather. Two of my great uncles moved to Harrison County, (Ky.) Whitfield and Acy.

I am almost 83 years of age."

Very Resp.

Mrs. Hettie Sallee.

(Keene, Ky.)

Extract from a letter, Lexington, Ky., August 11, 1939:

"My grandfather, Lewis, had a sister named Sidney, but whether she married a Hackney or not I do not know. But I do know that the Hackney's are related to the Collins's. Also my grandfather had another sister, Suckey, (Susan) whose 2nd husband was a Mathews. A daughter Sidney (Price) married Jacob Sallee.

My grandfather had a sister, Sallie Collins.

I know nothing of Acy or William except that both were brothers of my grandfather."

Respectfully,

Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee,

PARTIAL INDEX GUIDE

The following abbreviations will be used:

b. born.
d. died.
m. married.
abt. about.
n.f.r. no furthur reference or record.
daut. daughter.
d.s.p. died without issue.
d.yg. died young.
un m. unmarried.
decd. deceased.

Key to the numbering system:

The numbers 1 to 9 are used in numerical order; if a family numbers more than 9 children, the individual who died in infancy or with no later history, or un m. the number is followed by an "a" or a "b".

Each number or group of numbers shows at a glance, the generation to which that individual belongs. Each number belongs to a certain individual and represents that individual and no other.

In reading through the genealogy, if a name of a son or a daughter is given in italics, that shows that he or she appears again in the genealogy, giving his or her family and descendants. If the name of a child is not in italics, the line stops at that point, either because he left no descendants, or because of a lack of further information.

A family record is primarily of interest to the members of that family and most individuals are familiar with their family line through their parents, grandparents, and some to their great grand parents. Hoping the following outline through two generations will be a guide to a complete understanding of numbering and outline, the following has been prepared:

The compiler has attempted to carry this genealogy through six generations, but in some families has not been able to secure all data, to complete in full. Any further information and correspondence will be appreciated.

To find your family line turn to the Index Guide, page 6, find your family name and note the number. Turn through the book in numerical order until you reach that number, follow down the list of children and find your ancestor and note the number, then again, follow in numerical order, until you have followed the complete line.

For example, you may remember your grandfather or your great grandfather's name was Whitfield Collins. Turn to the Index Guide, page 6 and find that the 5th child of our ancestors, JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS was Whitfield Collins (5). Turn in numerical order to 5, and find Whitfield Collins and wife Sallie Allen Collins and the names of their children. Follow down the list of children and find the 7th child is Whitfield Collins (57). Turn in numerical order through the 50's, down to 57 and find the family line, Whitfield Collins and wife Mary Ann Collins (94) and the names of their children, the fourth child being James Mason Collins. (574).

Follow the family line of 57 until the number 574 is reached, and follow the line to complete the six generations.

Each number identifies the generation to which an individual belongs and his place in that generation, as for illustration, the number 574311, represents six generations as follows, reading from left to right:

5, Whitfield Collins, 1st Gen., 5th child of JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS.
57, Whitfield Collins, 2nd Gen., 7th child of Whitfield and Sallie Collins.
574, James Mason Collins, 3rd Gen., 4th child of Whitfield and Mary Ann Collins.
5743, Ernest Collins, 4th Gen., 3rd child of James and Margaret Collins.
57431, Bernice Collins, 5th Gen., 1st child of Ernest and Dovie Collins.
574311, Wilbur Shake, 6th Gen., 1st child of Bernice Collins and Gabriel Shake.

1a, WILLIAM COLLINS, b. d. m. No records have yet been found on this line, and it is known by a reference in Perrin's History of Harrison, Bourbon, Scott and Nicholas Cos. (Kentucky), pp. 708—

"He (John Collins) and his son WILLIAM were detailed as a guard, while the others slept;"—and family tradition refers to the older brother, WILLIAM, old enough to take a gun and guard the back trail, while his father guarded the advance, on the long dangerous journey from Virginia to Kentucky in 1787. (See No. 5.)

Also Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee says her grandfather LEWIS COLLINS had a brother WILLIAM. (See letter No. 2, in the historical sketch.)

It is not impossible that WILLIAM (1a) and John (1), could have been JOHN WILLIAM. (?)

"..... grandfather came here before the War. My grandfather's mother was Sallie Collins and I don't know the father's name, however Grandfather's name was WILLIAM COLLINS HACKNEY, born in Woodford Co., Ky., in 1821 and married Mary Ann Carothers of Jessamine Co., Ky. I have Grandfather's watch and it has the name, William Collins Hackney engraved upon it. Mrs. Irene Hackney (11141) was a Hackney before marriage, her father was a first cousin to my mother (Mary Frances Mackney Mossman 1124). ..... I understand the great grandfather first married a Sallie Collins, who died and he married her niece, also named Sallie Collins, who was the mother of his children. (Mrs. Irene Hackney gave me the names of two sons of the first wife. See No. 8.) I never saw any of Grandfather's family except his sister LUCY PILCHER, who was very old—ill, living in Tyrone, Ky., about, 1898, I believe and who left several children, that I believe are all gone, however I know of one grandson living in Versailles. ....., none of the other Hackneys nor Carothers family ever came here....., I have one brother here, two sisters in Chicago and a sister in Seattle, Wash., the eldest brother died 1927."

Yours truly

John Collins in his Will, 1844-1846, Woodford Co. Will Book "N" pages 1-2, wills to "my grand-daughter, LUCY PILCHER,"—no reason given for a bequest to her and no other grandchild. She was, no doubt, his eldest grand-daughter.

There is no data on this line other than the reference by Mrs. Ellis (11241) and the following copied from U. S. Census. 1850, Woodford Co., Ky. and is in all probability, the family of LUCY HACKNEY PILCHER.

Copied, Oct., 1939, from page 930, U. S. Census, Woodford Co.

Thomas C. Pilcher, Age 38; born in Ky.

Lucy C. Pilcher, Age 31; born in Ky.

Sarah E. Pilcher, Age 7; born in Ky.

John W. Hutchins, Age 2 yrs. born in Ky.
Sarah D. Hutchins, Age 10 (probably 10 months) (Husband, Daniel Hutchins, probably decd. prior to Census, June, 1850.

Extract from a letter dated 10-23-1939, Kingman, Ind.

"..... My grandfather Hutchins (Daniel Hutchins) married Sarah Hackney. Grand Pa and Grand Mother Hutchins had 3 children, Sarah, William (my Dad) Lucy. Then after he died she married ..... Tinder. They had 6 children.

I remember hearing my father tell about coming to Ind. when he was about 7 years old. My father (John William Hutchins) and my mother (Phoebe Jane (Collins) Hutchins) were both born in Ky., Woodford Co. They (Hutchins-Tinder) moved to Wabash Co., then to Grant Co. I don't know when Grandfather Collins (Lewis G. (14)) came to Ind. Both the Collins and Hackneys owned a plantation and had negro slaves."

12, MATILDA M. COLLINS, daut. of John (1) and Mourning (Wilhoit) Collins
b. . . . . , No record.
d. . . . . , prior to 1844, when her father, John Collins (1), wrote his will, in which he wills to "the children of my daughter, Matilda M. Young, and my son-in-law, Reuben Young."
m. . . . . , No record.

REUBEN YOUNG.

The author has no data on this family, only vague references to a relation of the Young's and Collins and a statement that "REUBEN YOUNG had a son URIAH, called Bud," but no statement as to relationship.

All data submitted, other than that of the will is mere conjecture based on Census Records, 1850, family names, records in other families and a community interest and location, living near Hackney's and Pilchers in Woodford Co.

Are the following families of MATILDA COLLINS YOUNG'S Family?

393, Thomas Mathews, b. 1850, (after ennumeration) and possessed of a remarkable memory when visited in 1932, by his cousin, Ellie Collins McDonald (466) of Versailles, Ky. He quotes her father (Ambrose Dudley Collins (46)) as saying, "Our people are of Scotch-Irish descent, and our Collins ancestors came from Scotland to Va. then to Ky." Mrs. McDonald says, "My brothers and I remember my father saying something similar."

Thomas Mathews also says, "Our ancestor (JOHN COLLINS) was buried at South Elkhorn" and believes he could go direct to the burying place if only able to make the trip. However, he thinks there would be little or no chance of getting the inscription from the grave stone as a barn was later built over the graves.

He was living at Cynthiana, Ky. in 1932, at the home of a daut. and died in 1933.

Lewis Collins and wife Sallie are buried in the old Cleveland family burying ground, near Keene, Jessamine Co., on one of the George Cleveland, Sr., farms, now owned by James Beck Collins, (463) of Versailles, Ky., grandson of Lewis Collins, (4) and great grandson of George Cleveland.

The burying ground, so often referred to in this history, as the final resting place of many of the family, lies atop a shaded knoll across a field, to the left of the old family home, the house still occupied, but long since succeeded by a more modern and more comfortable one which stands nearby.

Typical of the pioneer spirit, that carved a home and a state out of a wilderness, the old house stands, yet unconquered by the forces of nature.

"Lewis Collins engaged, with John Cleveland, in gunpowder business" (Perrin's History of Kentucky.)

ELIZA C. DISHMAN, b. 8-4-1836, in Ky. d. 12-29-1901, Johnson Co., Kansas

When John C. Collins and his younger brother, George Lewis Collins, went West in an early day, they settled first in Clay Co., Mo., later migrating to the vicinity of Olatha, Kansas, where they homesteaded land and where their descendants are still living.

Family traditions say that John C. Collins was at one time on the Staff of Gov. St. John, of Kansas, and that his wife, Eliza Dishman Collins, was a Secretary to Gov. St. John.

b. 8-22-1784,* in Va. U. S. Census. 1850. Harrison Co., Ky.
d. 1-5-1865,* Harrison Co., Ky.

Both buried in the family burial plot on the farm, at the back of the house.

"Whitfield Collins was about 6 years of age when his parents moved in the wagon, from Orange Co., Virginia, to Fayette Co., Ky., and remembered the trip; "how the father took his gun and went forward to guard the camp from Indians, and his older brother, William, guarded the back trail at night. He recounted many experiences to his grandson. Samuel Whitfield Collins, (581), who as a child and a youth lived in the home with the grandfather. It is from this line that I have received much of the data.

"When Whitfield was about 24 years of age, he entered the ministry of the old style Baptist Church in which he labored until his death, Feb. 18, 1871, aged 88 years, 10 months, 2 days. His career, as a minister, was a noted one, extending over a period of 64 years, and like most pioneer preachers of his time, his work was scattered over a large territory, embracing churches in most of the counties of central Ky.

On the 1st. of Feb., 1804, he married Sarah Allen, daughter of David Allen, of Pennsylvania, with whom his father, John Collins, had been in the Revolutionary War. (Presumably a neighbor in Orange Co., Va.) They were the parents of 13 children, 8 of whom lived to maturity."

Exeract from,

"The South Elkhorn Church Book 1822-1857. The Particular Baptist Division of the church.

"Church meeting the 2nd. Saturday in January, 1824. Br. Whitfield Collins, joined by letter and Examination. Church meeting the 2nd. Saturday in May, 1824. Bro. W. Collins, Moderator. Church met on Sunday and voted unanimously that Bro. Whitfield Collins be ordained a minister, as an assistant to our minister, Br. Shackleford, and have appointed the 1st Wednesday in June for his examination by our beloved Brother Ambrose Dudley, John Shackleford, Wm. Rash, and Thomas P. Dudley as a Presbytry accordingly Brethren A. Dudley, Jno. Shackleford and Wm. Rash met and after a sermon by A. Dudley proceeded to examine Br. Collins. The church and the Presbytry being satisfied, he was then ordained."

Church meeting, September, 1828. The church has cawl brother Whitfield Collings as its preacher.

Church meeting March, 1846. Bro. Whitfield Collins, Moderator. (Item). Bro. John Collins departed this life on the last day of February last. (2-28-1846.) and was about 74 years (74 years) of age."

Copied from the old minutes book, by Mrs. Mary Lee Mahin, Keene, Ky., Jessamine Co., June, 1935.

This old minute book is in the possession of Mrs. Hettie (Esther) Woods Sallee. (473) Lexington, Ky.

Throughout the minutes from 1822-1857, frequent items, show not only Whitfield Collins, active in the church at S. Elkhorn, but also his brothers, John Collins (1) and Lewis Collins (4).

In 1829, Whitfield Collins and his family moved from Jessamine Co., Ky. to Rutland P. O., Harrison Co., Ky. Here after a few years in "the old house", they built a typical Kentucky home. We (C. C. and Nora L. Collins, (5711) & (9341)) were there in the summer of 1932, in the house, about the lawn, and in the family burial lot beyond the orchard, where are buried Whitfield Collins and Sarah, his wife, and their son, Lewis (58) and wife, and others, the monuments in perfect condition. Earlier in the day, we had called at the home of SamuelWhitfield Collins (581) at Berry Kentucky, the grandson to whom, Whitfield (5) had told the stories of pioneer life, and migration from Virginia. Here we had seen and held the old family Bible, and from it copied the names of the children, births, and some marriages, as follows:

"Whitfield Collins writes a note of consent for his son Meredith to marry." Jessamine Co. Mar. record.

"The first house, in Rutland, Kentucky, laid out 1848, was built by Meredith Collins, on land, given him by Whitfield Collins, formerly owned by Wm. Kinman. Meredith Collins kept the first store in the place and sold to F. W. Bailey, who succeeded in getting a postoffice for the place, upon which he bestowed the name of RUTLAND, in honor of Rutland, Vermont, his native place." Perrin's History, Harrison Co., Ky., pp. 321.

RUTLAND, (in 1932) like many another hamlet of older days exists now, only as a memory, and a few bricks and stones, that have been parts of fireplaces and foundations.

John Collins and family came to Putnam Co., Ind., in 1847, and settled near Bainbridge. Here the family of eleven children grew to manhood and womanhood, men and women of sterling worth and character, a tribute to the guidance and influence of a wonderful mother, "AUNT LUCY", as she was known to everyone. Left a widow, just before the birth of her twelfth child, a son, she faced the world in pioneer days, with the task of rearing seven sons and four daughters—and nobly she acquitted herself—one of America's uncrowned queens. "And her children rise up and call her blessed."

JENNIE (ELIZA JANE) MASON, b. .....? decd.

Clipping from Indianapolis News:—Mr. Collins was born in Kentucky, one of twelve children. He was corporal in Company B, 43d Indiana Volunteers, in the Civil War, and is believed to be the last of the company. His company was recruited at Greencastle and captured the Courthouse and a Confederate flag at Little Rock, Ark. This flag was given to the Putnam County Historical Society at the last reunion of the company, several years ago.

He came to Indianapolis from Parke County, where he spent his earlier life and where he was a member of the Steel Post of the G.A.R., one of the first posts organized. In Indianapolis, he was a member of the Chapman Post, and for a number of years acted as chaplain.

Extract from a letter, dated 3-29-1933. "——a story which father once told me. He said, that at the old home west of Bainbridge, the family had the musket, which was carried during the Revolution by grandfather. (I think this is correct. P. M. C.) They used to fire it once a year—on the Fourth of July—and one year the boys rammed the barrel to the end with powder and dry grass and burst it. He did not know what happened to it, after the family was scattered."

Yours very truly,
Paul M. Collins,
5137 Washington Blvd., Indianapolis, Ind.

The Fourth of July incident is verified by Whitfield Collins (537) of Tuscola, Ill.

The Revolutionary soldier, who carried the musket, must have been a great grandfather, if of the Collins line, as the grandfather Whitfield Collins (5) was born 1782. Or it could have belonged to the maternal grandfather, Peter Smith. Family traditions tell us of two great grandfathers in this line, who were soldiers in the Revolution, JOHN COLLINS and David Allen—service not yet proven.

ROBERT FISK, of Greencastle, Ind.—a veteran of the Civil War.
b. ..... d. 1904 at Tuscola, Ill.
No children.

In the autumn of 1869, they moved to Douglas Co., Ill. perhaps the first of the Collins migration and began housekeeping in their newly built three room house, on 240 acres of wild prairie land covered with prairie grass. Out of this virgin soil, they developed a fine farm. In 1892 they removed to a new home in Tuscola.

The last years of her life were spent with the family of her niece, Lucy Collins Abrams (995).

"Aunt Mattie," as she was known to many, was regarded, by all who knew her, as a woman of beautiful Christian character, and gave her whole life and interest to the welfare of relatives and friends and to the work of the Methodist Church, of which she and her husband were influential members.

*Data on the above family supplied by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Collins) Barnes (584), Cynthiana, Ky. and Perrin's Hist. Harrison Co., Ky.

6, URIAH COLLINS, son of JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS, (?)
b. ....?.... probably in Orange Co., Virginia.
d. Abt. or prior to Sept., 1822, in Jessamine Co., Ky. as shown by Court Records, Jessamine County, Bundle No. 6, Book No. 1, Index to Estates, filed away. Inventories of his estate are filed Oct. 17, 1822 and Jan. 18, 1830.
(Will Bk. G. pp. 53.)
Admrs. Ally Collins and Lewis Collins.
Thomas Collins, Security.

There are no family traditions nor personal knowledge to identify URIAH COLLINS as one of the children in the family of JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS, and he is identified and accepted, only by inference, because of the close business and social contacts with those who are personally known as sons of

JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS; also, the frequent recurrence of the name URIAH, being used in the family, from generation to generation, to the present time. (1940).

The above names of the children of John and Levina (Collins) Florea, and the following family traditions are furnished by P. B. Florea, of Coffeyville, Kansas, a grandson of Lewis Collins Florea. (72) This data corresponds with, and supplements the records copied from a small memorandum book, recently come into the possession of Pearl Florea (Mrs. Woody) Clark, of Hackelman, Ind., a great grand daughter of John and Levina (Collins) (7) Florea.

Tradition:—"A family consisting of father, mother and three sons emigrated from France, presumably from Lorraine. The father died on the voyage and the mother and sons settled in Virginia.

When the sons grew to manhood, one went to Penn., one to Ky., the other remained in Va.

John Florea, the one going to Ky. married Mary Collins, of Ky."
(P. B. Florea.)

*Family Tradition, from two sources, gives the name of both 1st. and 2nd. wife, as Sallie, however, I find no marriage record of a Sallie Collins prior to 1816, but a record of Sidney, 1807. The names may have been used interchangeably—nicknames were common.

One of the difficulties the genealogist encounters in a study of families of Virginia and Kentucky lineage, is the complexity of family lines, brought about by the marriages of cousins, and double marriages between families. We find this true in this family of ten children, two brothers married two Cleveland sisters, and of the other eight, five daughters and one son married cousins.

Since a genealogy follows the male line in a family, the complete family line of four daughters (91), (92), (94), (96), are given under the husband's number, each of Collins descent.

The family of Thomas and Polly (Cleveland) Collins was early scattered over Indiana. As has already been stated, they were the parents of eleven children, ten of whom grew to maturity. Thomas, the father, died March, 1847, and in four weeks, the wife and mother died. Both are buried in the old Cleveland family burying ground on the farm now owned by James Beck Collins. The gravestone's records were copied from the stones by Ella Collins McDonald (466) sister of James Beck Collins. (463). The father's and mother's death left Jesse T., a boy of nine years, parentless; but he was taken into the home of his eldest brother, William G., where he grew up with their children and was much as a son and a brother, later going to the sister, Jemima in Grant Co., Indiana. Of the ten children who grew to maturity, only one, Lewis D., remained in Kentucky.

William G. removed to Putnam Co., Ind.; Jemima to Grant Co.; Hester to Fayette Co.; about 1843-45, three young married couples removed from near Lexington, Ky. to Ind.—the wives, sisters, Hannah Collins and husband Sarah Elizabeth Collins and husband, Margaret Jane Collins and husband settled in Grant and Wabash Counties. Mary Ann Collins and husband removed to Putnam Co.; George Preston Collins lived for a time in Ky., later moving to Illinois, as also did Jesse T.

The inventory of the estate of Thomas Collins, filed June 1, 1847, lists no real estate, but a large personal estate, which includes a long list of slaves, of which the following is representative and interesting.

"Bob, a negro man, age 40 yrs., $500.00.
Sarah, a negro woman, age 22 yrs., $450.00.
Lucy, a child, 4 yrs. old, $200.00.
Mary, a child, 2 yrs. old, $150.00."

Children—6. Emily, Thomas, George, Elizabeth, Nancy, Albert.

This family line is given complete, under No. 74, data furnished by Pearl (Florea) Clark, (7431) and Mabel (Florea) Hiatt, (7463).

The son, Albert Florea, was born 4-29-1847, after the death of his father 10-11-1846. All six children were born in Fayette Co., Ky. on a Henry Clay plantation, of which the father, Albert Florea, was overseer of slaves and farm. Albert and Hester had bought a farm, which was yet mortgaged at the time of his death. She not being able to pay off the mortgage, lost the farm. After the death of her husband—records differ from 1, to 4 or 5 years later—Hester Collins Florea, with her six children moved to Fayette Co., Indiana. Here they lived in one of the houses on the farm of Lewis C. Florea, (72) brother of the deceased husband. Later the house burned, one night, leaving them with but little besides the clothing in which they were sleeping. The family was then taken into the home of her sister, Jemima (92) and William S. Collins, (15). Some of the children were cared for by other relatives, Emily going to a sister, Betty Hedger, (98) Wabash Co., Ind. and Nan to a sister Mary Ann Collins (94) in Putnam Co., Ind., for a while. Later the family was together on an 80 A. farm, until all were married, except Tom and Albert, when the mother, Hester, died August 23, 1879.

"My father, G. P. Collins, was overseer on his grandfather's (George Cleveland) farm, for a number of years, also was overseer of the negro slaves on the plantation of Garrett Watts in Ky., for 10 or 12 years, after which, in January, 1864, he with his family emigrated to Ill., living in and about Bloomington in McLean Co. In the spring of 1869, he with his family moved to Douglas Co., Ill., where he lived until his death, August 20, 1904." Note:—This sketch was furnished by the youngest son, Wm. L. Collins, Atwood, Ill.

Note:—This branch of the Cleveland family, spells the name with an "a" instead of the spelling as used by the George Cleveland family, of Jessamine Co., Ky., although they are the same family. Since John Cleaveland of Harrison Co., Ky., a brother of George in Jessamine Co. uses the "a" in his pension application, Cle*a*veland may be the correct spelling.

INTRODUCTION

CHINESE PROVERB

"To forget ones ancestors is to be a brook without a source; a tree without a root."

In taking upon myself the task of compiling a biographical, historical and genealogical sketch of the COLLINS family, I fully realized the difficulties to be encountered. The greatest of these, no doubt, is the widely scattered family and family records, such as have been preserved. In the early migrations from the east, many times to the far west by pack horse, wagon or afoot some belongings must be discarded, left with relatives, passed from one to another, and finally lost.

Fires have made havoc, destroying court records, old church records and family Bibles and records kept in homes. Three wars with fire, pillage and devastation, from the Atlantic to the Mississippi, have destroyed many early records that can never be replaced. The pioneer ancestor has passed on, and with him, the early family traditions.

The lack of interest, on the part of many, is another difficulty, lack of interest in asking the older generations for family traditions; indifferent to answering letters of inquiry and thus contribute to the general family history, any information however small.

The very least of all obstacles, is the good natured gibe, that one may find what he would wish he had not found-the proverbial black sheep.

The COLLINS family, as a family, so far as my acquaintance and research have lead, and from what I have learned from the family, in widely scattered sections, is of high standards of right and wrong, honesty and honor, firm in their convictions, loyal to kindred and friend. They are, in the great majority, tillers of the soil. There have been no great philanthropists, educators, financiers, nor men of national fame. of strong convictions in politics but not politicians, yet, each has filled his place, as one of the great mass, of which Lincoln said:-"God must have loved the common people; He made so many of them".

In the work of this compilation, I am deeply grateful and indebted for the hearty co-operation and data furnished by Mrs. Ethel Collins Crager, Frankfort, Ky., probably of the same Virginia COLLINS family, before the early migration into Kentucky; Mrs. Ellie Collins McDonald, Versailles, Ky., Miss Nadine Hodges, Arkansas City, Kan.; Mrs. Mary Lee Mahin, Keene, Ky.; Mrs. T.D. Craven, Indianapolis, Ind.; my nephew, co-worker and adviser, E.R. McKay, West Newton, Mass., and to each and every one who replied to my letters of inquiry, and contributed data and traditions.

The author hopes this outline, though incomplete in many ways, will furnish a permanent record of family data and traditions, soon to be lost as the older generations pass on:-will strengthen the bond of kinship, throughout this widespread family circle:-will give us a new appreciation of our ancestors, who through devious paths down through the years have passed on to us our heritage of tradition and name.

COLLINS

"This well known surname is taken from two or three probable sources. One is the SCOTCH word "Cuilein" meaning "darlin", a term of endearment, usually applied to young animals. It is more probable, however, that the Collins surname was derived from the Welsh word "Coleen" signifying "hazel", "one of hazel eyes" or "one who lived near t the hazel groves". In IRELAND, the word "Coleen" signifies a young maiden. This may also be a probable source.

In the New England colony, the name of COLLINS was represented by a great number of first settlers. One of the very first was John Collins, a shoemaker and tanner, son of John Collins of Suffolk, England. He was born in 1616 and came to America before 1638. In 1646 he was a member of the church in Braintree, Mass. Edward Collins born in England, 1603, located in Cambridge, Mass., in 1638 and later removed to Medford, Mass.

The name of COLLINS is now widespread in the United States and wherever it is known it is honored for the high achievements and admirable qualities of those who bear it." Copied from Charleston, W. Va. Newspaper.

At the same time that the name COLLINS is represented in the New England colonies, we also find the name in the Southern Colonies, and find records of Collins's in Middlesex Co., Va., as early as 1683, as well as in other eastern border counties. The earliest COLLINS record found in Virginia is a record of "English Immigrants to Va.; Wm. Collins May 15, 1635, aged 20 yrs.; and Wm. Collins, aged 34."

Extract from a letter from Mr. George Gordon Collins, Danville, Ill., who has done extensive research on Collins:

"There were five well known families by the name of Collins among the early settlers of our country, each distinct and not related. One went ot Kentucky from Virginia. One settled in New England and stayed there until the branching out occurred in recent times. Another New England family settled in Ohio. A Virginia COLLINS family, William Richerson Collins, settled in Athens County in 1803. A Maryland Collins family settled in Ohio, in Fairfield and Athens Counties in 1805.

Your Collins Family has its records well established, fairly readily found, and was a prominent line all the way through, a family of which you may be proud to be a descendant."

Signed, Geo. Gordon Collins.

(Note:-The author has not, so far, had access to the records referred to, as in Newberry Library, Chicago.)

The first positive identification we have of our family line is in Orange Co., Virginia. As a result of a woman's curiosity and persistent questioning, I had from my grandfather, William G. Collins (93) the names of his grandfather and grandmother, JOHN COLLINS AND JEMIMA COLLINS, and wish to say, but for the fact that I quizzed him and got the name JEMIMA, there would have been no possible means of knowing which of the various JOHNS was our ancestor, as John was a frequently used name.

Orange Co., Va. Records, as follows, copied by Mrs. L.K. Wine, Culpeper, Va., Deed Book 17, p. 93, 10-26-1778.

Signed: John Conner, John Hiatt, John Proctor.

The above is listed for taxes 1781-1785 and sold 1787 as shown by the only grantor deed in Orange Co., Va., by John and Jemima Collins.

John Collins is said to have been in the Revolutionary War; said also to have been at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, and so stated in a family biographical sketch in Perrin's history of Harrison, Scott, Bourbon and Nicholas Cos., Ky. page 708. So far positive proof of Revolutionary service has not been found, since John Collins, our ancestor, received no Land Grant for Revolutionary Service and died prior to the issue of pensions for such service. Several men with the-JOHN COLLINS*were in the Virginia line, hence the difficulty of a positive identification.

JOHN COLLINS and JEMIMA his wife, with their family, came to Kentucky about 1787 or 1788, (See Deed) passing over the Alleghanies and continuing down the Ohio River in a flat boat; came through to entral Kentucky, passing through Lexington when it consisted of only a few log cabins, and settled on South Elkhorn; in Fayette Co. near where was afterward the town of South Elkhorn; leased 200 acres of Land from Col. Bowman, who owned a great tract. Family traditions say he was offered a deed to the 200 acres, in exchange for his wagon and team, the same with which he had moved from Virginia to Kentucky, but he refused the e offer, cleared and tended the land until it was in good e condition, but his lease expired with his death and his family did not reap the benefits from his labors. He died in the 66th year of his age and is buried in the graveyard of the old Baptist Church at South Elkhorn. (Combination of data in Perrin's History, page 708 and family traditions.)

We have been twice to South Elkhorn and to the church founded in 1783, so stated on the stone tablet over the door. We can find no evidence of an old graveyard, and it exists only in the memory of the oldest inhabitants-one aged man Mr. James K.P. Sallee, saying he remembers, when a young man, seeing some old gravestones back of the church, but, whatever became of them he does not know. (See statement by Thomas Mathews (393)

Extract from a letter dated April 7, 1934:
"I am Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee, and my mother was Miss Elizabeth Collins and married Merritt Woods. My great grandfather came from Virginia and settled on South Elkhorn. His name was JOHN COLLINS AND HIS SONS were Acy Collins, Whitfield ollins and Lewis Collins, these are the names that I know. There were several daughters, I think nine or ten children. Lewis was my grandfather. Two of my great uncles moved to Harrison County, (Ky.) Whitfield and Acy.

I am almost 83 years of age."

Very Resp.
Mrs. Hettie Sallee
(Keene, Ky.)

Extract from a letter, Lexington, Ky., August 11, 1939.

"My grandfather, Lewis, had a sister named Sidney, but whether she married a Hackney or not I do not know. But I do know that the Hackney's are related to the Collins's. Also my grandfather had another sister, Suckey, (Susan) whose 2nd husband was a Mathews. A daughter Sidney (Price) married Jacob Sallee.

My grandfather had a sister, Sallie Collins.

I knwo nothing of Acy or William except that both were brothers of my grandfather."

Respectfully,
Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee,

PARTIAL INDEX GUIDE

The following abbreviations will be used:
b. born
d. died
m. married
abt. about
n.f.r. no furthur reference or record
daut. daughter
d.s.p. died without issue.
d. yg. died young
un m. unmarried
decd. deceased.

Key to the numbering system:
The numbers 1 to 9 are used in numerical order; if a family numbers more than 9 children, the individual who died in infancy or with no later history, or un m. the number is followed by an "a" or a "b".

Each number or group of numbers shows at a glance, the generation to which that individual belongs. Each number belongs to a certain individual and represents that individual and no other.

In reading through the genealogy, if a name of a son or a daughter is given in italics, that shaows that he or she appears again in the genealogy, giving his or her family and descendants. If the name of a child is not in italics, the line stops at that point, either because he left no descendan s, or because of a lack of further information.

A family record is primarily of interest to the members of that family and most individuals are familiar with their family line through their parents, grandparents, and some to their great grand parents. Hoping the following outline through two generations will be a guide to a complete understanding of numbering and outline, the following has been prepared:

The compiler has attempted to carry this genealogy through six generations, but in some families has not been able to secure all data, to complete in full. Any further information and correspondence will be appreciated.

To find your family line turn to the Index Guide, page 6, find your family name and note the number. Turn through the book in mumerical order until you reach that number, follow down the list of children and find your ancestor and note the number, then again, followiin numerical order, until you have followed the complete line.

For example, you may remember your grandfather or your great grandfather's name was Whitfield Collins. Turn to the Index Guide, page 6, and find that the 5th child of our ancestors, JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS WAS Whitfield Collins (5). Turn in numerical order to 5, and find Whitfield Collins and wife Sallie Allen Collins and the names of their children. Follow down the list of children and find the 7th child is Whitfield Collins (57). Turn in the numerical order through the 50's doen to 57 and find the family line, Whitfield Collins and wife Mary Ann Collins (94) and the names of their children, the fourth child being James Mason Collins (574).

Follow the family line of 57 until the number 574 is reached and follow the line to complete the six generations.

Each number identifies the generation to which an individual belongs and his place in that generation, as for illustration, the number 574311, represents six generations as follows, reading from left to right:

5, Whitfield Collins, 1st Gen., 5th child of JOHN and JEMIMA COLLINS.

57, Whitfield Collins, 2nd Gen., 7th child of Whitfield and Sallie Collins.

574, James Mason Collins, 3rd Gen., 4th child of Whitfield and Mary Ann Collins.

5743, Ernest Collins, 4th Gen., 3rd child of James and Margaret Collins.

57431, Bernice Collins, 5th Gen., 1st child of Ernest and Dovie Collins.

574311, Wilbur Shake, 6th Gen., 1st child of Bernice Collins and Gabriel Shake.

1a, WILLIAM COLLINS, b. d. m. No records have yet been found on this line, and it is known by a reference in Perrin's History of Harrison, Bourbon, Scott and Nicholas Cos. (Kentucky), pp. 708-

"He (John Collins) and his son WILLIAM were detailed as a guard, while the others slept;"-and family tradition refers to the older brother, WILLIAM, old enough to take a gun and guard the back trail, while his father guarded the advance, on the long dangerous journey from Virginia to Kentucky in 1878. See No. 5)

Also Mrs. Hettie Woods Sallee says her grandfather LEWIS COLLINS Had a brother WILLIAM. (See letter No. 2, in the historical sketch.)

It is not impossible that William (1a) and John (1), could have been JOHN WILLIAM(?).

"..... grandfather came here before the War. My grandfather's mother was Sallie Collins and I don't know the father's name however Grandfather's name was WILLIAM COLLINS HACKNEY, born in Woodford Co., Ky., in 1821 and married Mary Ann Carothers of Jessamine Co., Ky. I have Grandfather's watch and it has the name, William Collins Hackney engraved upon it. Mrs. Irene Hackney (11141 was a Hackney before marriage, her father was a first cousin to my mother (Mary Frances Hackney Mossman 1124).....
I understand the great grandfather first married a Sallie Collins, who died and he married her niece, also named Sallie Collins, who was the mother of his children. (Mrs. Irene Hackney gave me the names of two sons of the first wife. See No. 8) I never saw any of Grandfather's family except his sister LUCY PILCHER, who was very old-ill, living in Tyrone, Ky., about, 1898, I believe and who left several children that I believe are all gone, however I know of one grandson living in Versailles,.....
, none of the other Hackneys nor Carothers family ever came here....., Ihhave one brother here, two sisters in hicago and a sister in Seattle, Wash., the eldest brother died 1927"
